An exquisite 18th century Queen Anne English Yew Wood Tilt-Top Center Table

A beautifully grained circular yew wood tilt-top table raised on a turned baluster stem and tripod base.

The richly figured yew wood top displays exceptional movement and depth, with swirling grain and warm honey-to-amber tones characteristic of aged English Yew. The surface has developed a luminous patina over time, highlighting the natural complexity and warmth of the wood.

The tripod base rests on gracefully splayed legs, providing a balanced silhouette and sturdy support.

This piece captures the understated elegance and provincial charm of 18th Century English craftsmanship — both decorative and practical, ideal as a center or occasional table.

A Louis XVI Parquetry Guéridon with Ormolu Mounts

This refined Louis XVI guéridon exemplifies the artistry and elegance of late 18th-century French design. The circular top is richly decorated with an intricate parquetry, arranged in a finely executed diamond trellis pattern, bordered by a contrasting veneer band that subtly frames the composition. Encircling the top, a delicate gilt-bronze (ormolu) molding provides a touch of restrained opulence while also serving as a protective rim. The frieze continues the trellis motif and is punctuated with finely cast gilt-bronze mounts of scrolling acanthus, foliage, and rosettes, each mount masterfully detailed to highlight the neoclassical ornament vocabulary associated with the reign of Louis XVI. The table is supported by four elegantly tapered, fluted legs, a hallmark of the neoclassical aesthetic, terminating in gilt-bronze capitals and sabots.
